though Congress failed to act. Visitors must have the opportunity to move about far more freely and extensively than now, so the more rapidly we can provide means the better. The frontage tax will undoubtedly provide for the streets of Honoiulu but the heavy traffic now using, and the far greater to act. and heavier traffic soon to come, leaves country roads a greater problem than ever.

No country road work on Oahu should be undertaken without consultng the commander of the Hawaiian Department for the military necessity of quick, reliable movements of men and heaviest artillery cannot be well disassociated from country roads. Round Top Forest Reserve

The Round Top Forest Reserve was. set aside so tourists particularly could reach our mountains and enjoy the views. This area, 115 acres, should be promptly reforested. Except for some reclamations, have covered the public's duty toward tourists. The board of harbor commissioners is a far-sighted body of men. Little escapes their progressive vision, Local impatience can well restrain itself. As well as elsewhere, the board is looking out for Hilo and Honolulu, if anything beyond their present means. Education Well Advanced In education, all things considered, Hawaii is in advance of any other political entity, particularly in the care and liberties extended to aliens,

The only false note is the demand made on us for exceptions, affecting our laws and our own obedience, on account of race and language. I might go on with local matters, but my time grows more brief. Urges Respect For Government

I urge on you a greater respect for government; for government that seeks justice for all; for government that seeks to be guided by conserva-tive experience and the lessons of past history. The Spartan has more to his credit that Croesus. America in its mad rush for wealth is forgetting some of the virtues that make an invincible nation, and is acquiring the characteristics that have been fatal to nations in the past. The virtues that preserve must obtain in each in- vote of said board: dividual citizen, and Hawaii's share her own horders. To direct others tai 7. advice is to fail.

The press of these islands has great responsibility—a responsibility far beyond the calls of business, advertising and partisanship. I need not particularize for the conscience of each knows.

Question of Immigration It is not for you or for me to per mit our information or judgment to be swayed by sympathy.

The world is passing through a material and not an ethical experience. Japan, producing population faster than it can make room for it, attempts expansion in various parts of the world, and, now the world situation admits of the chance, she rapidly seeks absolute control of China, and in so doing pays no regard to the altruistic United States other than to make plausible explanations.

Germany, overcrowded agricultur-ally, seeks relief for its population in manufactures and commerce, becomes ambitious to extend both, and finds herself consequently in war. Necessity is bringing her new discoveries. She has had no surplus power to affect the United States.

England, with cool and far-sighted nstincts, persistenly in the past augmented her navy that her control of distant lands and her great commerce might not be put in jeopardy. Her fears grew until war ensued, and will grow, so will her navy increase. Having the power she can and does ignore the interests of the United States.

Russia, balked for centuries of an outlet to ice-free seas at Constantinople turned to the Pacific and built the great Port Dalny. Driven from this outlet, she again seeks an outlet at Constantinople.

All other nations engaged in this war are pawns in the game. Don't believe for one moment there is to be a cessation of over-population or strife for commercial strategy and Altruistic United States has been full of altruistic talk and tremendous altruistic expenditures, but she has not clear-sightedly watched or studied, and finds herself helpless to enforce either her rights or ethics. "Spare the rod and spoil the child." We now, at this late day, find we must provide the rod, praying we may never have to use it.

Government to be Trusted
It is not for you or for me to judge concerning peace or war. Our government can be trusted to do the most intelligent and clearest judging. It has judged the situation requires every factor relating to war on land or sea needs to be at hand ready for nstant use. It has decided the Hawaiian Islands, particularly the Island of Oahu, must be made impregnable The cost of installation and maintenance will be almost unbelievable but for recent financing. Already we are directed to provide for 24,000 soldiers, which means civillans and families to number near 6000 in addition. The Naval Station at Pearl Harbor may easily, with the fleet stationed, total 20,000 souls. What is our duty? Is there any way of our avoiding our duty were we so disposed? Shall we remain here simply to be protected or shall we join and not only help in our protection but help protect the whole United States of America? We have among us Esaus who would sell their birthright and that of the whole community for a mess of pot-

We have among us Judas Iscariots to whom thirty pieces of silver would justify the sacrifice of our country; nd we have Benedict Arnolds, who would drag down the high-spirited to spy's death. You can spot them. Stands for National Guard

I stand by the National Guard of Hawali. It is the expression of the Territory of Hawaii for loyalty and the power of the United States of America. It must be supported, no matter what the cost to the territory added to the contribution of the national government, until it is thoroughly trained, drilled and practised and thereafter continued until instantly available as an auxiliary to the Hawaiian Department.

This government has acted under consultation with the commanders of the departments and will so continue

The Territory of Hawaii must prove herself American, ready to face the world and its problems as they exist in fact and not in theory. And now, all honor to those who love peace, seek peace and hope peace, to compel peace. BY AUTHORITY.
